Overall till CAT	Watch good movies, read good books, feel good, positive and confident. Get your schedule right – so that you are most alert around the hours when you will take the exam.				Stop after whichever test gives you confidence! You have done enough!

IMPORTANT:

The above is an indicative plan to maximize the impact of your preparation in the final few weeks prior to CAT. You may need to fine-tune the same basis what you have covered so far, when you started your preparation and your specific strengths and weaknesses. Please discuss the same with your mentors or feel free to write to us at mbaguru@rootseducation.com for a session to help you fine-tune this plan.

It is strongly advisable that you use every single workshop/revision session/AIRCAT/interaction as an opportunity to surround yourself with positive and serious aspirants and mentors apart from seeking and getting valuable inputs from your mentors. Don't allow the scores of practice matches to make you feel cocky or inadequate. Only one score counts - the actual exam score. So, make these last few weeks count big and give it your best!
